

Project Learning Tree® Policy for Activity Reprints and Adaptations

Project Learning Tree, the environmental education program of the American Forest Foundation, maintains the exclusive authority to grant reprint permission for PLT activities. All requests for permission to reprint must be received by the national PLT office, in writing and include the purpose of the request, anticipated number of copies to be distributed, and estimated scope of distribution. Permission to reprint activities will only be granted based on a thorough review of complete draft materials submitted with any given request. Please allow four weeks for the review by PLT staff.

- Reprint permission reprint will be granted only for the most current edition of PLT materials for a one-time, exclusive use of those materials only.
- Permission will only be granted if those PLT activities will appear in materials that will not be sold.
- Permission must be obtained to reprint PLT activities that have been previously reprinted.
- Permission to reprint PLT activities from the PLT PreK-8 guide is limited to a total of no more than three activities for any individual, organization, or group requesting permission.
- Permission to reprint PLT activities from the PLT secondary guides is limited to a total of no more than three activities for any individual, organization, or group requesting permission, with no more than one PLT activity to be reprinted from any one secondary guide.
- There is an Administrative and Processing Fee of $1000.00 per activity for all reprint permissions granted. Requests to waive or reduce the administrative fee must be made in writing to the PLT national office.
- All reprint permissions granted will require placement of the AFF/PLT copyright symbol and/or AFF/PLT ownership clause on each page of the reprinted activity. In addition, proper credit to AFF/PLT and information on how to learn more about and access PLT through appropriate means shall be indicated prominently within the reprinted or adapted publication, using language such as the following: “Copyright 20XX, American Forest Foundation.
